Haig and Joffre Indorse Plan of Methodist Mission Campaign.

Presley 8. Smithwick, vice-president of the First National bank, of Memphis, has been appointed by Dr. W. B. Beauchamp, of Nashville, director general, as treasurer of the Memphis Methodist conference to receive all checks and contributions to the Methodist centennial drive during the week of May 18 to 28.

eph Fewler, local chairman of th

Joseph Fewler, local chairman of the campaign, has practically completed his plans for a whirlwind drive for $190,000 from this district beginning Sunday, May 18. On that day pastors of the city will deliver appropriate sermons and exercises will be held in all Methodist churches in the South.

Two of the largest churches in the Memphis district will raise half of the local quota. The St. John's and the First churches have agreed to pledge $75,000 each and the remainder will be distributed among the other churches. The pledges will be collected on five-year terms, payable in annual or monthly installments.

Among the hundreds of men of international reputation who have indored the missionary centenary movement of the Methodist church are Marshal Haig and Marshal Joffre. Sir Douglas Haig has sent his congratulations to the Methodist Episcopal churches for the success of their campaign for workers and funds for after-war reconstruction at home and abroad. During these the Methodist Episcopal churches for the success of their campaign for workers and funds for after-war reconstruction at home and abroad. During these four and one-half years of war the church has played a great part spiritually and materially and now stands in need of universal encouragement to enable her to continue her work for humanity and to enable her to assist in solving the many grave problems that lie ahead of us."

One of the most inspiring interviews given the Methodist church commission that visited France recently was that with Marshal Joffre. "Papa" Joffre, as he is familiarly known by the soldiers, was greatly touched when he learned the plans the Methodists have for helping his country with religious work. "France is in such very great meed of everything," said he, "that whatever you can do can not fail to be of service. The need is especially great in the devastated regions. Soon the people will be returning to their demolished homes to start life over again. The shock at what they will find will be very great. They will find will be very great. They will find will be very great assistance. More help will be required, for there is bound to be a tendency to let down morally in the face of such losses and destruction.

The only safe basis for a permanent destruction.

The only safe basis for a permanent peace is a Christianized world and the only way to Christianize the world is to send the gospel to all the people. America fought for universal democracy and the responsibility now upon the Christian church is to underwrite a world democracy with a world Christianity. The M. E. church, South, will begin a huge campaign May 18 to raise $35,000,000 to be used for missionary coucational and reconstruction work in all parts of the world. Five million dollars of the centenary fund will be used for reconstruction work in Europe.

The chief chiesting of the world.

The chief objective of the centenary movement is to make Christianity supreme in the world. The centenary is Methodism's world war.

RÉV. GEO. W. KEMPER.

"Some fellers ain't got no more sense Than always to be thinkin' That ever'thing is goin' wrong That the old ship is sinkin'; So ev'ryone is criticized From Adam to Abe Lincoln.

"My plan is jest to smile and grin, An' cut out all the whinin' Fer when it rains I always think Somewhere's the sun is shinin' An' if it ain't, it ain't no use To sit around repinin'!

of optimism with them is seemingly waning.

The times in which we are now living demand an intense spirit of optimism. One has only to look around him and converse with men of all classes to realize this need. Things have been so "wobbly and uncertain" in the world for the past four or five years that many are beginning to feel that our best days are over, and only uncertainty and unrest will be our portion for the future. We have "sounded out" a number of men recently for an expression as to their feelings toward present-day conditions, and have been somewhat surprised to find that the disposition of so many of them is to look at things through "colored glasses" and to find that the spirit

But why shouldn't we all be optimists? The Man of Galilee lived in our world at a time when conditions in many ways were far worse than they now are, and yet was an intense optimist, and His teachings most certainly breathe the same spirit. The real trouble with so many of us is that we are lacking in faith, not only in God, but also in our fellow man. When our faith is challenged we shake our heads, per-haps, and are confident that some mistake has been made—even to question it for a moment. But when we come to examine our real self and ask what is the matter, in nine cases out of ten we will find that our pessimistic feelings are attributable to a lack of faith, or to a disordered stomach, and sometimes, maybe, to both!

Someone has said: "An optimist is a man who can scent the coming harvest while the snow is on the ground; a man who can live in the sunny days of June even when he is in the dingy days of December: a man who can believe in the best, even in the arrogant and aggressive presence of the worst." Yes, he is also the fellow who sees beyond the mere hole in the doughnut, and views with pleasure the toothsome ring!
This is what makes him so popular, so attractive to us! The world needs more of the "Sunny Jim" variety of folks in it today.

This spirit of optimism is not only needed in our religious life, but also in our business life. The merchant who reaches the point in his business career when he constantly talks in a discouraging way about business conditions, and refuses "point blank" to even advertise his wares, because "t'ain't no use, nobody will see it and nobody will read it," had just as well make up his mind to prepare himself for a visit from the sheriff, who will come upon special invitation of his creditors. In the words of the sensible wife of our old friend, Josiah Allen, "We can't all set on a rainbow and eat honey," but we can all look for the best in everything—even whether it manifests itself or not.

In the religious life it is absolutely essential that the optimistic spirit prevail at all times. The devil wishes for nothing better than to bring about a spirit of pessimism and discontent, which naturally follows, in the followers of Jesus Christ. His best work is always done when we have that, "down and out" feeling, and oh! how he must smile when he catches us in that shape! The failure in many an individual Christian life, and also in many churches, is largely due to pessi

True, spiritual conditions may seem a little bad at times, and the dark cloud may appear to weaken our faith, but behind it always is the "silver lining." Jesus still lives and rules and reigns, which means that Jesus still lives and rules and reigns, which means that right shall finally triumph over the evil, and that no matter how dreary seems the snow-clad, wintry world, there is always a June-day of prom ise for our encouragement.

Therefore, why continue discouraged and long-faced longer? It doesn't pay. It is not only our duty, but one of the great privileges of the Christian life to help make this old world of ours a far different place from what the pessimist pictures it. We need and must have the broad vision of the optimist, who takes all the lemons handed him in life and makes lemonade out of them! Then let us busy ourselves at the task of "making lemonade," and remember, while making it, that true optimism and cheerfulness is the birthright of every joyal follower
